

ch saying /c/ Christmas Festival Practice

twinkl

Here are this week's focus words for reading...

thought through

Common Exception Word Baubles

Read the common exception words on the baubles.
Watch out for thought and through!

Next

where

Next

Next

through

Next

Next

Today, we are learning to read words that contain ch saying /c/.

We have already learned the sound for 'ch' however in some words it makes a /c/ sound.

X

Click me for Kit's teaching tips!

Sometimes, when we see ch, the h is silent so we say /c/.

school

echo

Christmas

Sam jumped out of bed and ran into Kit's bedroom. "Wake up, Kit! It is the season to be jolly!" Sam thought for a moment and continued, "I mean, it is the week to be jolly!"

“Is it the morning?” Kit replied, looking most unimpressed at being woken up by Sam.

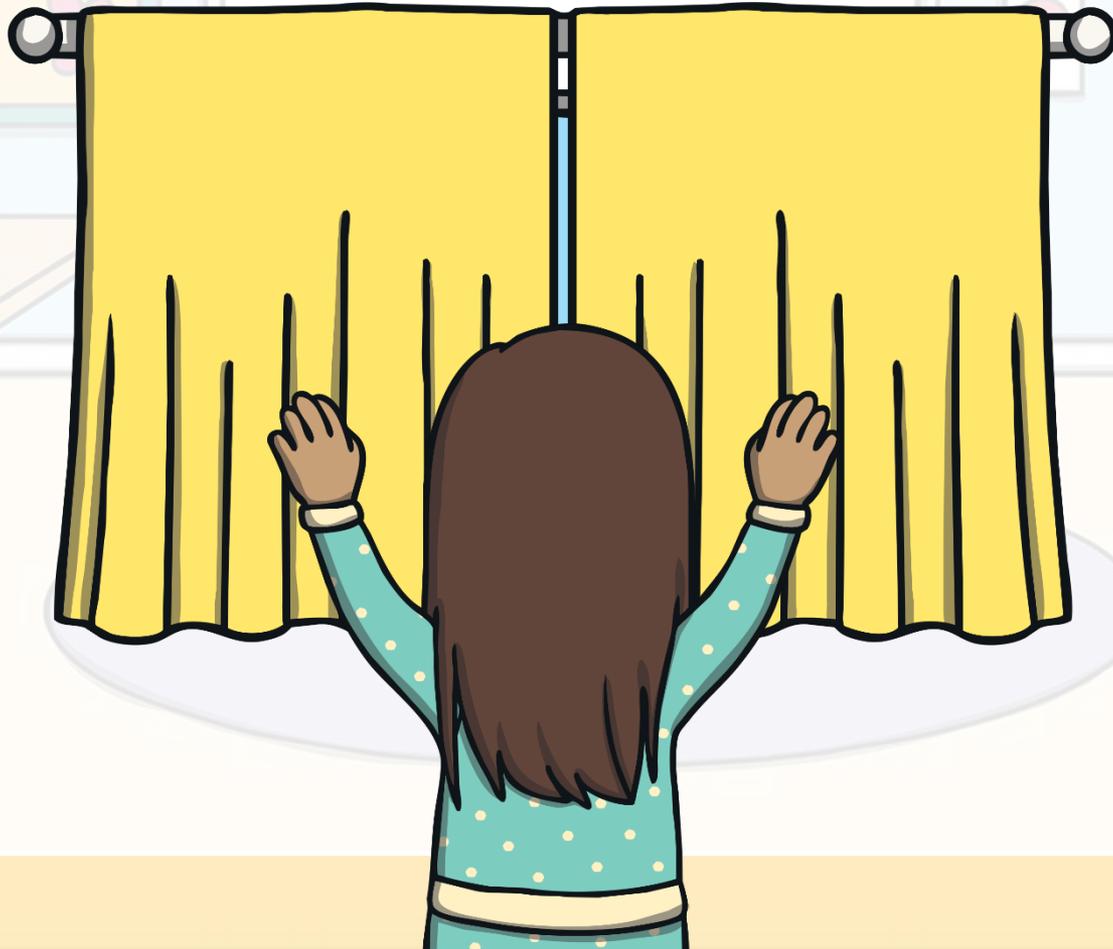

“Yes, it is! Today is our Christmas festival! On Saturday, it is the Christmas fair. I cannot wait!”

“I am excited too,” said a sleepy Kit. “I will just have a few more minutes in bed.” As Kit hid under the bed covers, Sam opened the curtains.

“Come on Kit, get up!” said Sam.

Click on the curtains to open them and reveal a word.
Can you read the words?

school

Christmas

chemist

chord

Shake a Bauble

Sam is feeling excited about Christmas at school.
Click on the baubles to reveal a word on the Christmas tree.
Find and say all the words on the tree.

On the way to school, Sam thought about the words to the Christmas songs and started to sing them. Kit did not join in as he was still sleepy. He was excited about Christmas but wished Sam had not woken him up.

When they got to school, their teacher Mrs Tan announced, “After the register, we will go through the songs again for one final practice.” It was the Christmas festival that afternoon.

Sentence Time

What was Kit thinking?
Read the sentence and then click 'Show' to reveal the answer!

Do we have to go through the Christmas songs again?

Sound Buttons On/Off

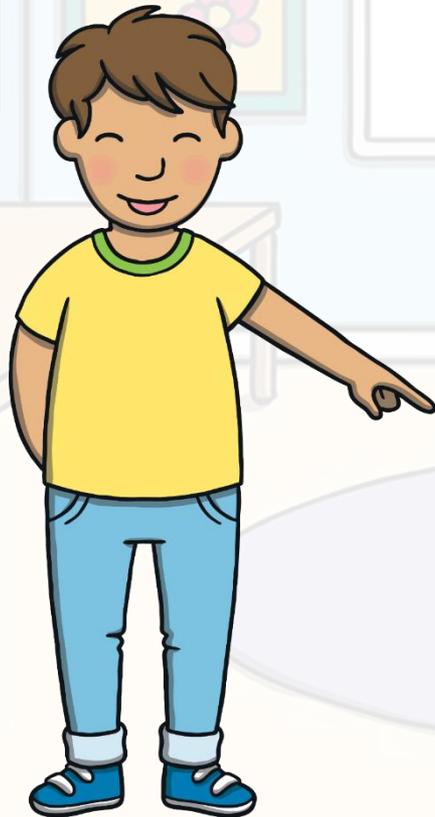

Show

After song practice, Miss Wells came in to speak to Mrs Tan and the class. “What beautiful singing I heard as I walked through the hall! I thought I was at the theatre.” The class laughed! They hoped that their parents would think that too.

Today, we have learnt...

ch saying /c/

The adventure continues next lesson!